Since its launch in 2005, Lymington Dot Com has become, in the eyes of many, the de facto source of information for Lymington on the internet.

The site attracts local residents and visitors to the area through its comprehensive directory of local business, reviews, articles and webcams to name but a few features. It is however the 'community' aspect which has always been the ethos of Lymington Dot Com.

Ever since the site launched, charities have regularly been supported via the 'Charity of the Month' section. Not only has this raised the profile of charities such as Naomi House Children's' Hospice, RHLI and Oakhaven Hospice, it has also provided an opportunity for users to donate funds directly via the site.

Lymington Dot Com in association with DREAMS COME TRUE presents:

THE DREAMS WEEKEND

December 8th & 9th 2007 - LYMINGTON

The business has helped significantly to promote the benefits of Lymington's Quay and has been instrumental in encouraging the local traders to establish The Quay Association. The association has in turn helped to action repair of damaged street furniture and improve the area's environment..

On the 8th and 9th December, Lymington will be hosting one of the largest charity events the town has ever seen, an event organised by the staff at Lymington Dot Com.

Not only does this weekend aim to raise significant funds for Dream Come True (a charity that makes the dreams of terminally ill children become a reality) it also sets out to revive the lost community spirit in town by getting business, residents and visitors involved with the project.
