New Forest Hotels manage four hotels within the New Forest including the Bartley Lodge at Cadnam and the Moorhill House in Burley. Along with the guest accommodation they offer a range of conference and wedding facilities as well as award winning dining in the hotel restaurants.

The group has supported career training and development involving apprenticeships and other training opportunities from school leavers to career changers. This has taken place on a wide range of hospitality apprenticeships from housekeeping, front of house to professional cookery. In some cases these qualifications then progress to Advanced Hospitality Leadership and Supervisory Diplomas or Professional Chefs.

Individual Managers are given a degree of flexibility regarding the training needs within their team. They can adjust budgets accordingly to ensure that the greatest level of service is provided at all times.

The hotel has a desire to watch their staff grow into their roles, which is why they have a policy of promoting staff from within the company wherever possible. This approach allows for real progression through the organisation, in one instance seeing an employee move from Silver Service Waitress to Hotel General Manager before moving onto head office.
